Justice Clement holds that the trustees had no right to divert that particular portion of the oridge property to private use. He says in part:

"The entire cost of the plaza and the avenue of approach, now known as Liberty street, was to be paid by the city of Brooklyn, and by the of the act the land taken was to be held by the trustees of the city of Brooklyn. It is very evident that the lands acquired for terminal facilities and structures, and which were paid for by the two cities jointly, are to be used for bridge purposes and structures, while the lands acquired for the plaza and the new Liberty street cannot be so used, but only as erty street cannot be so used, but only as a means of approach to the Bridge. The city of New York has paid one-third the cost of the bridge, and therefore receives one-third of the surpius income. On the other hand, the entire cost of the plaza, an open public square adjoining the Breoklyn sation, and of a wide avenue running thereto was paid by the city of Brooklyn, and New York, as part owner of the bridge, derived no benefit therefrom.

"I am of opinion that the plaza, by the act of 1891, was intended to be a public square and a part of the avenue of approach to the bridge. This is the conclusion of Mr. James C. Carter in his opinion furnished to the trustees as to their powers over the land in question. He says: But there can be no doubt that, as no structure was to be put upon it, it could be made use-powers over the land in question. He says:

But there can be no doubt that, as no structure was to be put upon it, it could be made useful only as an avenue or means of approach, and therefore such was the purpose for which it was intended. By section 3 of the act it was provided that the trustees should open an avenue to the entrance of the brings at Sands street, which would include the plaza. It follows that the authorities in control cannot erect or permit to be erected stairways or platforms or any other structure which will interfere with the free use by the public of the surface of the plaza or of Liberty street. The trustees in this respect, if in control of Liberty street and of the plaza, have no greater power than is possessed by the Common Council over streets and public squares in Brooklyn. The law of the highway is well settled, and the authorities in control of any street have no power to license the erection of a structure thereon which would be a nuisance it not authorized by law. I am also of the opinion that the gallery, stairs, and platform, if erected as proposed, would be a part of the terminal station, and are, therefore, not permitted by the act of 1801.

The railroad company had begun work on the plaza when the injunction proceedings were instituted.

NO STAND FOR WARING'S PARADE. Aldermen's Reasons for Objecting to the White Squadron Review.

If the majority of the Board of Aldermen. publicans and Democrats, had their say about it, Col. Waring's parade of the employees of his department next Tuesday afternoon, May 26, would not take place. Alderman Hall preented to the Board yesterday a resolution to build a reviewing stand on Fifth avenue, between Fortieth and Forty-second streets, in front of the reservoir, from which the Mayor and city officials could see the procession.

The reading of the resolution acted on the Aldermen as a red cloth does on a bull. Alderman Olcott jumped up to oppose it. He opposed it first on the ground of the expense. The Aldermen, he said, were not in a position to prevent the parade, but they could refuse to pay any money to help it along. A greater question than the expense, he continued, was whether it was proper or just to the employees of the depart-"I am opposed to parades of departments with the possible exception of police parades, said he. Mr. Olcott further spoke of the uniforms the men were compelled to wear, and concluded by saying:

"I don't believe in subjecting those men to the scoffs, laughter, and humiliation that will result for the personal gratification of an indiresult for the personal gratification of an indi-vidual or the individuals who have brought about the change in the department."

Aiderman Hall hastened to explain that he had been requested to present the resolution. He said the parade would be held whether the Aldermen liked it or not, and the head of that department merely asked for a courtesy that had been extended many times to private or semi-public associations. The department, he said, had done good work which ought to be ap-preclated.

"And spent more money." said Alderman Brown, sorto voce.

Alderman Noonan protested against the parade as being unjust to the men. He said that many of the sweepers were men who had seen better days and had been transferred from one section of the city to another in order to conceal the fact that they were sweeping the streets. This parade would make an exhibition of them dressed up in their uniforms.

Alderman Lantry said the men would have to spend 30 cents each for new buttons.

The result of it was that Alderman Hall's resolution was lost, 9-17.

AFFAIRS IN HATTI.

Consul-General Smythe Says the Island I

The Hon. Henry M. Smythe, Minister Resiuntil Mayor Wurster took office that the privileges were granted by the bridge trustees. dent and Consul-General of the United States to Hayti, and Charge d'Affaires to San Domingo, arrived in New York yesterday from that island for his summer vacation, which he will spend at his home in Tazewell, Va. Mr. Smythe will go to Washington to-morrow to report at the State Department. He will probably remain in this country until after the Presidential election, and he expects to take an active part in the campaign. Mr. Smythe fluence against the free-silver craze. Mr Smythe does not think that any free-silver candidate can be elected President, and he believes that if McKinley is nominated by the Republicans he will be defeated at the polls. In speaking about the condition of affairs in Hayti and San Domingo, Mr. Smythe said yesterday:

"At the time of the death of President Hip-"At the time of the death of President Hippolyto, early in March, it was feared by many that the island would be the scene of another revolution, but the people, having enjoyed nearly six years of peace, remained quiet, and the new President was elected a claimost unanimously for the full term of seven years. He is a progressive man, and has selected a Cabinet of men with modern ideas. In general he will pursue the plans adopted by Hippolyte, and the outlook for the republic is bright. Hayti buys annually from the United States from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 worth of goods, and if the merchants and manufacturers of this country will only make an invelligent effort to secure the trade, they may monopolize the business of the island. As shown by the receipts of the consular agents on the island, the trade between Hayti and the United States has increased nearly 100 per cent, during the last three years. The merchants should try to pack their goods in the way the Haytians do, for the islanders are slow to change their methods of transacting business, and like to do things as their grandfathers did.

"It is important that American business men should know, however, that just at present fallure of Postel & Co. of Paris and Simons & Gluck of Paris, through whom much of the business of the island was transacted. I think it will be advisable for American merchants to be careful about extending credits in the republic for some time. The ultimate result of the failure of the French bouses, however, will be beneficial to the American trads, it will result in doing away with many Haytian houses that were not firmly founded, and hereafter the financial atmosphere will be clearer. The situation will seen right itself, for the coffee crop, the main product of the republic, is larger this year than in any previous season. Most of the crop will be sent to the United States instead of the Europe, where it went before the duty of four cents a pound was removed.

"In San Domingo, where many Americans have money investments, and a polyte, early in March, it was feared by many that the island would be the scene of another

SAWED THE BARS OF HIS CELL.

55 Years of Imprisonment. PATERSON, May 19. Frederick Jenner, who will be sent to-morrow to Trenton to serve out a twenty-five years' sentence for highway robbery, made an attempt to escape from the county jail this morning. He was confined in cell No. 2 on the north-side of the main corri-dor. While Watchman William Lowe was making a round at about 3:30 he thought he heard a noise coming from that cell. He went to the cell and peered into it. He saw Jenner lying on his cot, apparently fast asleep. Lowe thought his imagination had played him a trick and went away. Fifteen minutes later while walking along the corridor, he heard a similar cound from the same call Mr. Olcott replied that he didn't object to the work of the department, but to the parade.

Mr. Goodman said that the department had done under Col. Waring the best work known to this city.

"And spent more money," said Alderman Brown, setto yee. he examined the door thoroughly, and its con-dition alarmed him. He awoke Jail Warden Buckley, and the two went to Jenner's cell, They found Jenner apparently in a deep sieer. They searched the cell thoroughly and upon examining the door found that two iron bars had been sawed through and removed. They shook Jenner and he rose up as if just waking. They questioned him, and when he saw that his attempted escape was discovered he con-lessed.

his attempted escape was discovered he confessed.

"The Jig is up," he said, "but you don't blame me, do you? You would have tried to escape if you had twenty-five years in State's prison looking you in the face.

He brought out from under his pillow a saw, such as is used to saw steel or iron bars. How it came into his possession is a mystery. The only visitors permitted to see him were his mother, sister, and brother, and they were allowed to converses with him only through a screen door, which would not have permitted of passing anything to the prisoner. Had Jener succeeded in leaving his cell, it is possible that a murder would have been committed, as to escape he would have had to force the door of the main corridor and overcome the watchman.

The cell of Michael Hogan who was sen-of the main corridor and overcome the watchman.

The cell of Michael Hogan who was sentenced for twenty-five years for participating in the same rime, also showed signs of an attempted escape. On one of the bars of the door were clearly defined marks of a saw or other instrument. Hogan was taken to Trenton to-day.

The two men stopped David Dringer in a Paterson street and at the point of a pistol demanded his meney. Dringer struck one of them and in return he was shot in the leg. Jenner and Hogan then ran away.

SOLDIERS IN MORTAL AFFRAY.

One Stabbed and Another Shot as the Result Cincinnati, May 10.—In a cutting affray at Fort Thomas yesterday Private Brown was stabbed by Sergeant Harkins of Company A, and the latter was shot through the ear by Sergeant Raymond of Company G. The men met in a drinking resort and had some words. Harin a drinking resort and had some words. Harkins and Private Henry started for the quarters, when Harkins was assaulted by Brown. Harkins drew his pocket kolfe and cut a long gash across Brown's abdomen. He also stabbed him above the heart and in the right side. Brown was taken to the hospital. Harkins went to the quarters, passing behind the guard-house to avoid the sentry. He was directly in front of the staff officers' quarters when a shot was fred at him, the builtet piercing his ear. He turned and recognized Sergeant Raymond. Both officers were locked up in the guardhouse. The case will be handled by court martial.

Nearly one-half of the transactions on the Stock Exchange to-day were in Sugar Refining. That stock was the only one in which the dealings exceeded 10,000 shares. It was exceptionally weak, and at a small fractional rally from the lowest price closed 1% ? cent, below yes-terday's final figures. A decline of 14 of a cent a pound in the price of raw sugars during the last few days to 4 cents for 96 centrifugal has caused a bearish feeling in the sugar trade, particularly as it is generally believed that refiners are heavily long of the raw material on account of the curtailment of the production in Cubs and prospects that Germany would advance the export bounty on beet sugar. The market for stocks other than Sugar Refining was very duli and in the main lower. The exceptions to the rule were unimportant. As for some time past, the selling appeared to be chiefly by professional operators, who were influenced to-day by lower quotations for American securities in London, and also by a consideration that is affecting capital in a large way, both here and abroad, namely, prospects that sound principles of political economy will be subordinated to a political ambition in the Presidential campaign that is at hand.

The course of the market for securities, since it became evident that politics and not sound finance is likely to predominate in the approaching Presidential election, should awaken every wage earner, every business man, and every promoter of enterprises to the seriousness of the present crisis. It is well enough to boart of the energy, enterprise, and ability that are important factors in the material development and irrepressible prosperity of this country. but the fact remains that the United States are not independent commercially, and they cannot afford to ignore the standard by which international settlements are made. It is even more important that they should not adopt, or even seem to favor, a policy that is manifestly dishonest. The market for securities, duli and constantly sagging, unquestionably reflects fears that a majority of the people may be betrayed by their ignorance or partisanship to enforse such a policy.

Engagements of specie for shipment by Thursday's steamer are improbable, although the foreign exchange market continues strong at a high level. Exports on that day, or to Germany in the near future, are improbable, because foreign bankers have reduced the price they have been paying to attract gold from this country. There is a possibility, however, that gold may be sent to London on Saturday as an exchange operation unless there is a decided lowering of rates in the next few days. Dealers in exnon-appearance in the general market of bills drawn against the New York city and Massachusetts State bonds recently placed in London. The chances are that the disposition of those bills might easily be explained if tion of those bills might easily be explained if certain contracts covering their sale were made public. The best informed bankers are of the opinion that the bills have been absorbed by one or two large drawers who have been short of exchange incidental to efforts to minimize exports of specie. The most important, if not the only noteworthy, piece of financial news to-day was the large increase in exports of general merchandise this week noted further on in this column.
